Dr. William C. Roberts, editor in chief, announced the cowinners of the seventh Ralph R. Tompsett Writing Award.

Tuoc N. Dao, MD (Figure 1), a surgery resident, published the article, “Clinical utility of breast magnetic resonance imaging in patients presenting with primary breast cancer,” in the July 2007 issue. Coauthors of the article were Jeffrey P. Lamont, MD, and Sally M. Knox, MD.

Meera Shreedhara, MD (Figure 2), who finished her fellowship in oncology in June 2007, published the article, “Reversibility of pamidronate-associated glomerulosclerosis,” in the July 2007 issue. Coauthors of the article were Andrew Z. Fenves, MD, Diana Benavides, MD, and Marvin J. Stone, MD.

The Proceedings staff thanks all the residents and fellows who published articles in 2007. First authors on articles included Brian G. Schwartz, MD, Tina Mahajan, MD, Thomas G. Van Dinter Jr., MD, Scott C. Adams, MD, Brandon Chau, MD, and W. Lance Garner, MD.

The Ralph R. Tompsett writing award was initiated in 1999 to encourage medical residents and fellows to write for the journal and to acknowledge outstanding contributions. The award is named in honor of Dr. Tompsett, who was the chief of internal medicine from 1957 to 1979.
